ALDERMEN SAY: END SCHOOL ATTENDANCE ON THE INCREASE TELEGRAPH STRIKE

Urging That There Be a Settlement.

Alderman Richter introduced the foilowing resolution at the meeting of the garding school registry and attendance Board this afternoon; "Whereas, more than 1,500 commercial telegraph operators have been on strike in this city for five weeks, and

Whereas, efficient telegraph service is impossible until these striking teleguppers resume work, and Whereas, this deplorable state of affairs could and should be brought to a speedy termination by a spirit of conciliation by the parties engaged in the dispute let it therefore be 'Resolved, that the Board of Alderme recommend to the striking telegraphers and their employers that they make every possible effort, for the benefit of the public, to reach a settlement in order that normal telegraphic conditions may be promptly restored."

Alderman Downing opposed the resolution saying the matter was not one to concern the Board of Alderman.

Alderman Richter said it was the concern of the Aldermen, who represented the public which is suffering from the strike. "We should go on record as favoring a speedy settlement."

The resolution was adopted, there being but a few noes.

Mrs. Curtiss thought it very simple, indeed, two weeks ago when the conservators were appointed. She immediately proceeded to disregard this economical arrangement of her relatives and went to New York. The fact that she was under the furfield of the Connecticut courts and not free to go without leave did not trouble her in the least. She preserved many other people do, and to New York to Connecticut, as a great many other people do, and to New York she came.

John C. Shaw, the New York conservator, who is also one of her law-vers, reasoned with her in vain. She would have declined to dance with a man she didn't like in the days of her cellebood. Courts and conservators alike meant nothing to her conservators.
